

Golden Star

Sometime in the future, in the year 3217, many people loved the new sport Gravity Boarding. "It's just like skateboarding, except in air." explained James. James was explaining almost everything to Yenaled. the new school student that moved from Beijing, Chiniaka (the name of China changed in 2959). Yenaled spoke English, though. "Slow down, James! You're talking too fast!" Ron tried to tell James. "It's okay, I heard most of it," said Yenaled, trying to speak calmly.

"Sooo, do you want to gravity board or not?"

"Sure, I guess," Yenaled answered.

A week had passed since James, Ron and Yenaled had signed up and started boarding. "What's that?" Ron asked as he pointed at what looked like a crash site. They decided to check out what had happened 'It's just a meteor crash," spoke James. Then suddenly it flashed and everything was different. Well, they were in a different place, anyway. "Wait!" Yenaled shouted before anyone started walking in the desert-like place. "Our homes are two miles north of here!"

"Which way is north?" asked Ron.

"If you look at our shadows and the sun, you would know, Ron," answered James.

"Shush," Ron blabbered quickly. They agreed to go north.

"We've walked how far?" asked Ron, as he tripped over a rock. "Nice, but now it's a mile away."

"Good," Ron thought as he brushed off the sand All of a sudden a giant scorpion flew out of the sand! "Run!" They ran as fast as they could to escape. They finally escaped and got home. They hid the secret until they died
