

Of All the Days It Had To Be Today

A long, long time ago, in a small town in Canada, lived a twelve-year-old boy named Eric. He was obsessed with one game, Runescape, a game of adventure and magic and sword-duelling with online play. Eric thought he was the only one in his town who knew about Runescape. He thought he was special, and he was. One day he decided to tell his friends about Runescape, but they already knew and they were even at the same level as he. He decided to have a Runescape club called Freedom Fighter. Together they never stopped helping people.

Lance Worsley School Grade Seven